EPC Diversity Fellowship

The vision/mission of the Department of Educational Psychology and Counseling (EPC) is to excel in the preparation of leaders and scholars who promote psychological health, educational expertise, and civic responsibility. EPC offers graduate study related to teaching, learning, and counseling across the lifespan. The department is focused on recruiting diverse graduate students from traditionally underrepresented minority groups. The EPC Diversity Fellowship is an important mechanism by which EPC can recruit, support, and graduate students from diverse backgrounds.

Eligibility Criteria & Application Requirements

The EPC Diversity Fellowship is open to first-time, full-time enrollees who have been admitted to an EPC master's degree program and demonstrate significant potential as a graduate student. This fellowship is open to U.S. citizens. Applicants must be admitted to a master's degree program by March 12, 2019. Admission will be confirmed by the EPC Director of Graduate Studies. The awardee will have until April 15, 2019 to accept or decline this fellowship.

Timeline & Award

Candidates will be nominated by program coordinators on or before March 12, 2019. Applicant files will be reviewed by EPC departmental leadership. Recipients will be notified by March 21, 2019.

The fellowship recipient will receive a two-year, 10-hour graduate assistantship. The second year is contingent on successful performance the previous year. The graduate assistantship includes a tuition waiver, health benefits (distance students are not eligible for health benefits), and an annual stipend of $7,000.
